Beautifying — Madison School District's Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization recently spent a day doing landscaping work to beautify the grounds of the middle school and high school. From left, seventh grader Jermain Smith, senior Laura Peterson, nine-year-old Jaqueline Vogel (whose mother is a teacher in the district) and sixth grader Shamie Sullivan pull out weeds and dig holes at the high school. Shimkus calls criticism unfair

Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus said he's proud to run on his record despite attack by state Rep. Hoffman, his opponent in the 20th District congressional race.

Shimkus said the attacks are an indication that Hoffman's campaign is in trouble.

Hoffman, a Collinsville Democrat and state representative, has accused Shimkus of a pattern of mismanagement. In his tenure as treasurer, Hoffman cited an independent audit that criticized Shimkus' office for delays in reconciling bank accounts.

Shimkus, also from Collinsville and the only Republican candidate countywide, conceded that the auditors' criticism was legitimate but said it was blown out of proportion.

He said the delays, due in part to the resignation of a key employee, have been corrected. Auditors are not well-versed daily and fact distributions are not always clear, he said.

Shimkus said other complaints raised by Hoffman were "pretty old stuff" and had "already been judged by the voters."

Hoffman, at the same news conference, cited past complaints about Shimkus' expenditure of $31,000 for office furniture in 1992 and cellular telephone calls Shimkus charged to the county when he was campaigning for Congress in 1992.

Hoffman said that, although Shimkus boasts of returning $135,000 in budgeted salary to county coffers, treasurer's office expenditures have increased 20 percent since he took office.

Shimkus said only a small part of the furniture expenditure was for his personal office which, he said, is furnished much like that of other county officeholders. He said the cell phone calls were for legitimate county business.

Shimkus said his office has remained under budget each year despite increases in expenditures caused by negotiated pay increases.

Sexual assault alleged

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

East St. Louis police were seeking charges of aggravated criminal sexual assault on a Granite City man arrested in the city of Madison Saturday.

According to Madison police, at about 6:50 a.m. Saturday an officer was dispatched to a home in the 1900 block of Edwardsville Road after a caller reported a battery. When an officer arrived, the alleged victim told him a 35-year-old Granite City man had raped her in East St. Louis. The man was sitting in a nearby car and was taken into custody.

The victim, a 23-year-old Madison resident, said she and the (See ASSAULT, Page 2A)

Lamping to chair Old Newsboys drive

By Jean Abernathy
Staff writer

Kids and baseball go together like, well, baseball and hot dogs, or baseball and peanuts, or baseball and S'mores.

It's only fitting that Mark Lamping, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, will serve as chairman of the 1996 Old Newsboys Day. The drive benefits thousands of children in the St. Louis area.

The Cardinals have a long history with Old Newsboys Day. In 1959, Stan Musial chaired the third Old Newsboys Day. In 1960, Cardinal owner August A. Busch sent his time and name to Old Newsboys Day. Later his son, August A. Busch III, chaired Old Newsboys Day.

Cardinal players and the ever-popular Fredbird often join the throngs of volunteers Old Newsboys who don aprons and peddle special-edition newspapers to benefit the cause.

This year, again, the Old Newsboys edition will feature the Children's Choice Awards. Look for Children's Choice questionnaires in the Journal next month.

Lamping, 38, grew up in south St. Louis County and has many memories of Old Newsboys Day.

"If everyone would buy just one Old Newsboys Day paper on the way to work, we'd be in good shape," he said. "I've always bought a newspaper, but I sometimes forget to put it on the dashboard and end up with five or six papers."

Old Newsboys Day has raised more than $5.7 million since 1957. Last year, $162,000 was raised. Every penny paid for the special edition of the Journal goes to the fund, which distributes grants to children's charities in the metropolitan St. Louis area.

Transit district OKs Ridefinders contract

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Madison County Transit District has approved a one-year extension of the contract for RideFinders with the states of Missouri and Illinois, and awarded bids for 18 vans and 13 light buses at a recent meeting.

The first two approvals of the extension of agreements to continue funding for the program with the Missouri Highway and Transportation Department and the Illinois Department of Transportation.

The current contracts expire June 30, and the extension will go to June 30, 1997, when federal funding for the program runs out.

Transit district director Jerry Kane said the agreement with Missouri is an extension of the current contract, while IDOT requested a new contract.

RideFinders is administered by the transit district and was set up to reduce vehicle emissions in the St. Louis region.

In Illinois the program serves Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties. In Missouri, it serves Franklin, Jefferson, St. Charles and St. Louis counties, including the city of St. Louis.

RideFinders is funded primarily through the Federal Highway Administration's Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement Funds.

Other resolutions combined two federal projects — the purchase of 23 buses and a funding agreement with the Illinois Department of Transportation for construction of the Edwardsville Transfer Center.

Edwardsville and Alton were originally together, but because of environmental studies necessary for the transfer center, were separated to speed the bus purchases.

"Now both are certified and they want them back together again," he said.

The district also approved a resolution authorizing agreements with AAIC and Korte Construction Co. for architectural design and construction management services.

SIUE begins campus bike patrol

Ten officers are hired for new program

Students and faculty at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are in for a surprise when returning to campus this fall.

The University Police at SIUE have recently hired 10 officers who have formed a new campus patrol — on bicycles.

Sue Huebner, University Police public safety counselor, said they got the idea for a bicycle patrol from observing other police departments that are utilizing this form of transportation.

"Our department keeps an ear to the ground for innovative ideas," Huebner said. "We have been talking to the police in Heights and Belleville police had bike patrols, so we sent some of our officers to those bicycle training sessions to check it out."

Bicycle patrols have worked well in the past because a bicycle allows greater patrol freedom and it allows officers to have more frequent contact with the communities they serve, Huebner said. However, she said that the University Police will also continue to use patrol cars.

When asked if she predicts any problems with the bicycle patrol, Huebner replied, "No, not at all. We have high-speed mountain bikes with all the bells and whistles that's in the care. There will also be patrol cars backup for the officers on the bicycles."

Huebner said most of the department will receive bicycle patrol training, which will be offered at least three times by a sergeant of the St. Louis Police Department.

It is an intensive, four-day training course and certification is received through the International Mountain Bike Association.

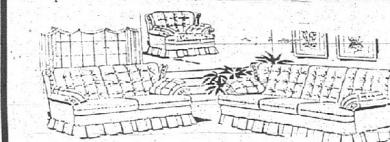

The bicycle patrol and the 10 new officers were possible because of a grant through the U.S. Department of Justice. Huebner applied for the three-year grant, which provides a maximum $750,000 plus the hiring of 10 officers, and the U.S. Department of Justice awarded the maximum amount of money to the officers. The grant was awarded Jan. 1.

"We were so happy and amazed when we found out," she said. "We're the first university in Illinois to get this kind of grant. The only other departments that received this kind of money were the Chicago Police Department and the Illinois State Police."

Huebner said the department is very fortunate to have the 10 new officers. "It's really a good, diverse group," she said. "There's a great balance between the experienced and inexperienced, the older and younger. We're ready to throw them out there and see what they can do."

man had gone to Brooklyn at about 1 a.m. to purchase crack cocaine.

While in Brooklyn, she said another woman stole the man's drugs.

He then convinced the woman to go to an unidentified East St. Louis motel, where he tied her up with her shoelaces and beat her.

Later, she convinced him to go to the Edwardsville Road address where she could obtain more money to buy drugs. Instead, she called police.

Police reports said the officer noticed she had several bruises and there were indentations on her wrists and ankles.

The case was turned over to the East St. Louis police department.

As of Monday, the suspect was in custody at East St. Louis, and police were seeking warrants from the St. Clair County State's Attorney's office.

"To The Retiree Who Wants To Protect Your Money, Income, And Assets From Being Wiped Out!"

You Can Lose Everything You Own!

Retirees who have not set up proper securities can, and often do, have all of their wealth wiped out when someone in the family goes into a nursing home. The government can literally take your CD's, your house, your income and pension checks, your investments, IRA's...you name it!

The Myth Of Medicare!

One of the biggest misunderstandings around, is that Medicare will pay for nursing home expenses. This is completely WRONG! Medicare only pays for a limited amount of time in a long-term care program! In fact, Medicare usually pays NOTHING towards the costs of staying in a long-term facility! YOU ARE responsible for your care and your assets...not Uncle Sam!

Medicaid Will NOT PAY Until You've Lost Everything...And Are Flat Broke!

Many people think that Medicaid will pay the monthly costs of being in a nursing home. That's true. But, they will only pay after you've lost nearly everything you own! You virtually have to be penniless before you qualify for Medicaid!

The Average Family Will Lose Everything!

The cost of long-term nursing home care is astronomical. The national average is over $40,000 per year. How long would your assets last if you had to pay that kind of money? And, even if you had the money, why would you want to? No one wants to see their whole life savings evaporate right in front of your eyes! Every day, we see people being wiped out...needlessly. There are solutions to this terrible problem. But, you won't find them in any magazine, or from your accountant or attorney!

Find Out What You MUST Know About Protecting Your Life Savings...Before It's Too Late!

A local financial advisory firm is hosting a series of FREE seminars that will teach you:

- 10 legal ways to transfer assets out of the "countable" category, into the "un-countable" category.
- How to virtually bullet proof your home, so it may never be taken away!
- How to take steps that may prevent your CD's and other bank accounts from being taken away!
- How to virtually assure your Social Security and pension income will be kept in your hands...not Uncle Sam!
- How to virtually assure your assets will be protected from nursing home bills and how to avoid this deadly trap!
- Little known loopholes to legally avoid being forced to sell your assets, or surrender your money to Medicaid!

FREE Seminar Reveals The Secrets To Protecting Your Future From Medicare!

You deserve the peace of mind and security that protecting your assets from Medicaid achieves! If you'd like to learn more about how to protect yourself, now, we're holding a FREE SEMINAR on FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1996, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at BELLEVILLE, IL, Call 800-535-2108 for times and reservations. and the Hardees on Madison Avenue currently employs about 35 workers plus four management employees, Wamberg said.

Ron Wittmann, executive director of the Tri-City Area YMCA, said the measure would have a negative effect on the already tight budget. The YMCA pays beginning lifeguards and front desk clerks minimum wage.

Last year, the YMCA was forced to cut personnel and forced raises for full-time staff down to a revenue shortfall, Wittmann said.

While revenue has been better this year, the wage hike probably would have any improvement the YMCA seen in its financial situation.

"We may have to look at increasing membership rates to make up the difference," Wittmann said.

Ron Motil, president of the Granite City Park Board, said the measure could have a similar effect on the park district.

"We really haven't discussed it," Motil said. "Obviously, we'll comply with the law."

The park employs a large number of teens, especially in the summer months.

"We have a tight budget and every year it becomes more difficult, with increases in the cost of insurance and utilities," Motil said. "We may have to take a look at raising rates (when the wage increase) takes effect."

John Bush, who owns two Kroc's Restaurants in Belleville and one in O'Fallon, said he does not see any advantages to increasing the minimum wage.

He estimated increasing the minimum wage to $5.10 will cost him an additional $39,000 annually. Bush suggested that the legislation likely will result in "dollars being just traded."

"It's nothing we haven't seen before," he said. "It's just catch-22."

Diana Barron, owner of Adia Personnel Services in Fairview Heights, said several business have commented on her thoughts about the bill and its effects. Several of the businessman said they are worried about how they should compensate employees who are now making slightly above the minimum wage, she said.

Staff writer Mark Hodapp contributed information for this story.

• Levee

Most of the development along the canal has taken place at the Tri-City Regional Port. That also happens to be where the existing underground canal is located, subjecting it to flooding and erosion caused by high water levels.

"Strict enforcement of the design pending elevations would prevent existing facilities from expanding and seriously hinder all future development," the report states. "Economic losses could be in the tens of millions of dollars."

Dr. Charles Kinn Jr., chairman of the board of commissioners for the Tri-City Regional Port, said the port district board and staff support the project.

"We will do everything we can to help ensure its completion," King said. "Our only concern is that the corps design for underpinning will change to eliminate implementation as the mechanism to equalize levee levels during flooding of port facilities and lands as an indirect result of the corps' new system design."

Part of the proposed project includes improving the Chouteau, McRae and Venice pumping stations. That pump station is often worked to capacity, pumping water from relief wells, under-page waters and storm water runoff.

Other work expected to be done during the first phase is the rehabilitation of 174 relief wells, installation of 38 replacement relief wells, excavation of 10,300 feet of new ditch, filling 10,300 feet of existing ditch, and the installation of 6,810 feet of reinforced concrete culvert pipe.

Also on the agenda are construction of 346 new relief wells, 1,510 more feet of concrete culvert pipe, extending seepage berms and construction of a retention dike along Illinois 3 just north of Interstate 270.

Planning for the project is expected to come exclusively from federal sources. U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello is playing the lead role in Congress to obtain the funding the project needs.

The entire nine-mile-long Chain of Rocks Canal levee was built by Corps of Engineers in 1953. The levees on each side of the canal serve two purposes: to provide a narrow channel during all river stages and to protect the area from Granite City to East St. Louis from flooding during high river stages.

The system protects an area of about 85,000 acres.

• Shimkus

He said he has kept promises to voters that included returning pay raises and improving service to the public.

"I see no reason not to continue to run on my record," Shimkus said. "I don't claim to run a perfect office but we do identify problems and we try to fix them. It's a better office, a more professional office and it provides better service at less cost."

Hoffman disagreed.

"The major thrust of John's campaign has been balancing the budget at the time even of cutting Medicare and Medicaid still giving tax breaks to the rich — and fiscal integrity," Hoffman said.

Hoffman said Shimkus cannot brush off the auditors' criticism as political.

"Anytime there is a reportable finding by a 'Big 6' accounting firm, it is a big deal," Hoffman said. "Similar criticism five years ago by another of the nation's six largest accounting firms, Arthur Andersen & Co., heightened concern about Shimkus' record," he added.

Hoffman also resurrected past complaints about Shimkus' expense account of $10,000 for office furniture in 1992 and cellular telephone calls charged to the county by Shimkus when he was campaigning for Congress in 1992.

Trekkies turn out for Shatner visit to St. Louis

By Matt Mattingly
Staff writer

William Shatner's famous "Get a life!" line from a 1986 "Saturday Night Live" skit about Star Trek conventions was the buzz phrase at the recent St. Louis Science Fiction Celebration.

However, far from reflecting resentment, it has become a term of endearment in the 30-year love affair between Shatner and his fans. Maybe Star Trek fans are simply very forgiving, especially when their idol was making his first-ever convention appearance in the St. Louis area.

Celebrating the 30th anniversary of Star Trek, a horde of Star Fleet officers, Klingons and assorted life forms descended upon the Henry VIII Hotel & Convention Center for the four-day event, which featured costume and trivia contests, collectibles for sale, and, of course, the one and only Captain James T. Kirk.

Shatner, who portrayed Kirk in the 1966-69 series and seven subsequent motion pictures, only put in an hourlong appearance Sunday in a question-and-answer session. However, fans agreed he was worth the price of admission ($16 for one day, up to $250 for a V.I.P. pass that included a pre-signing photo with Shatner). "I'm a Trekkie, for sure, way back," said Teri Mane, a 30-something mother of two from Jennings. "It's incredible. Now I've gotten to meet the entire cast of the original show."

She and other fans admitted Shatner was the most popular nerd.

"I never had seen him before," said Overland chiropractor Gene Stickel, 41. "He was everything I expected."

Shatner could never have expected the turn his career would take when Star Trek creator Gene Roddenberry approached him about making a second pilot for the series at the request of NBC, which "liked the idea" but disliked the original pilot starring Jeffrey Hunter as the Captain. Shatner rejected the offer.

He became Leonard Nimoy as the Vulcan Mr. Spock and the rest of the original crew wound up as part of TV history and the mythology of our culture. But instant recognition has its down side, Shatner said.

End of era — All that's left are the memories of States nightclub now after the building that housed it was torn down recently. Baxmeyer Construction Inc. tore down the building to make way for an expansion of Gateway International Raceway in Madison.

At one airport, "someone pointed at me and said, 'there's Capt. Nimoy,'" he added. He entertained his fans with amusing anecdotes about the series, the movies and his home life.

"He's very funny," said 14-year-old Christen McClinton of Alton, Ill., who was attending her second Star Trek convention. "This was the best one so far."

Her grandmother made her costume, of Counselor Deanna Troi from "Star Trek: The Next Generation," which earned her third place in only her first costume contest, she said.

"It (making costumes) costs a lot of money, but I figure the homemade ones are a little better," McClinton said. "Star Trek fans really feel at home at conventions; we have similar interests. Everyone is really nice and talks to you."

Stickel, a member of the Ritenour Board of Education, finds Star Trek and science fiction rewarding.

"Star Trek is my all-time favorite TV show. It's one of the few shows that talk about the nature of being human," he said. "The major characters always seem to act from a place of principle, rather than just expediency."

The appeal of Star Trek shows in the diversity of the fans, from youngsters and teenagers all the way "to a little old lady in a wheelchair wearing a Star Trek uniform," Stickel added.

"I think it also has appeal because it gives hope that there is going to be a future for us, for generations to come," he added.

"Everyone seems to have laid Kirk to rest. Shatner has not given up hope of resurrecting the character. And he did have fun making the series and movies, he said.

"It's been quite an experience," Shatner said.

Star Trek fans propelled him to other movie and TV roles, as well as a second career as science fiction author.

"All of the things that I've done other than Star Trek, I think, came from Star Trek," he said. "So I can be nothing but eternally grateful for Star Trek happening to me."

However, some of the obscure trivia questions posed by Star Trek fans evoked a head-scratching, "I can't believe you asked that," from Shatner.

"I don't know the answer to any of these questions," Shatner said. "I've forgotten all of it (details from the series) — it's been a long time."

Plane shows no sign of mechanical failure

Crash investigation may last until fall

CHICAGO — It may take until fall for a federal agency to complete an investigation into a fatal jet crash near St. Louis International Airport, but so far there is no sign of mechanical failure.

Carl Dinwiddie, regional director of the National Transportation Safety Board, said investigators have X-rayed engine parts and reviewed data from electronic data collectors, known as "black boxes."

However, investigators looking into last month's crash of a McDonnell Douglas F/A-18 fighter jet have not completely ruled anything out, Dinwiddie said.

The NTSB is investigating the June 19 crash, which killed McDonnell test pilot Jeffrey Crutchfield, 44, of St. Charles, Mo. He was practicing approaches when his plane crashed into a garage in the 500 block of Bender Avenue in the Wayside Estates Subdivision.

"The engines were still operating on impact, and we have no reason to believe they were not fully functional," Dinwiddie said.

"We have a lot of talent

The engines were still operational on impact, and we have no reason to believe they were not fully functional. We have a lot of talent working on it.'

working on it," he said.

He said mechanical failure cannot be ruled out but that it appears unlikely.

He said a full report will be completed this fall and turned over to the five-member safety board, which will determine the cause of the crash.

He said the board would look at the general areas of "man, machine and environment" in determining the cause.

It is not clear why Crutchfield did not eject. The transportation agency said it had found no evidence to support speculation that ejection seat problems or fuel problems had contributed to the crash.

Crutchfield's plane had been repaired, maintained and prepared for flight by white-collar workers at McDonnell. The International Association of Machinists began a strike at McDonnell two days before the crash, and the company used nonunion supervisory personnel to do work usually done by machinists.

Even before the crash, the union argued that the white-collar workers were not qualified to do the technical repair and maintenance needed to keep an expensive military plane to fly safely. McDonnell disputes that.

The NTSB will examine later whether Crutchfield was merely a top Navy test pilot who taught others to fly caused the crash.

Dinwiddie refused to say whether pilot error contributed to the crash.

The Associated Press also contributed information for this story.

The windup — Clippers pitcher Mark Winfield delivers a pitch in last weekend's doubleheader.

said Smith. "I think the car ran well for us, but Steve's was faster at the end. It was a good race, and I congratulate him on a fine effort."

this has definitely been a down year."

As down as it's been for Tri-City, it's been an up year for Collinsville (2-2).

"It's come right over from the high school season," Helmckamp said. "Nearly all of the kids from 'high school came out for the Legion team this summer, so we haven't missed a beat."

"We were young and inexperienced to begin with," said Winfield. "Then a lot of the high school players didn't come out, including seniors. That didn't help too much."

Collinsville has been rolling recently, and Helmckamp didn't want the team to know they had already wrapped up the South Division crown before the game.

"I didn't want the guys to let up," he said. "You do that, and the 'C-C's will hurt you. I wanted us to come out and play like we had to win."

•Rivals

"You have no choice but to put those things behind you," DePew said. "You just play baseball. The whole purpose is to come out here and have fun playing the game. We love the competition and the rivalry. Sometimes bad things happen, but if you want to play, you have to let those things slide."

"We just want to play."

"We're all veteran players," said Helmckamp. "Things happen. But both teams gathered themselves and played a very good ball game."

Game two featured one of the league's all-time great pitchers in Granite City's Hendrickson against one of the younger pitching stars in the league, Waterloo's Cole Proffer of Durango.

Each team plated 10 runs in the first inning. John Moad drove in the Clippers' first run, and the Buds scored when Neil Fiala singled. John Wahlig piled on a double, and he was driven home by Hendrickson's double off the glove of shortstop Jeff Kaiser.

The Buds then had a big inning against Hendrickson (8-2) in the second, as Mark Vogel, Clay Moehrs, Fiala and Mike Wirth all drove in runs.

"I threw some bad pitches early," Hendrickson said. "Moehrs and I were generally pleased with both of his young pitchers on Saturday."

"Chris (Hargan) and Cole are both very improved," said Helmckamp. "You have to make the players in these games between two good teams. There were instances in the first game where we didn't make the plays. And in the second game, we were pretty much made all of them."

"He threw the breaking ball for strikes, and had good location on his fastball," DePew said of Proffer. "He can pitch."

The Clippers came back in their half of the sixth. Jeff Stepphens led off with a single, and Proffer then Jason Wood hit an RBI triple later in the inning, and he was driven home by Hendrickson's double off the glove of shortstop Jeff Kaiser.

Proffer looked to tiring in the sixth, but he came back to work a good ninth inning to get the win.

"I wish we played nine-inning games sometimes," DePew said.

•Forfeit

But Winfield settled down, driving just a leadoff hit to Wahlig in the third before retiring the next three hitters.

"Winfield was throwing well all day," Moehrs said. "He was moving the ball in and out. We could never get on track. When we did, we were fortunate enough to string a few hits together."

Winfield went five strong innings for the win. He allowed six hits, while walking one and fanning six.

Hargan had an uncharacteristic poor performance. In 5 1/2 innings, he surrendered nine runs, seven earned, and eight hits. Just as important, the right-hander issued six walks, including three in the fatal sixth.

Both teams put together big first innings after two were retired. Hargan retired Tim Hogan and Stephens to open the game. But Jamie Hogan homered to left-center for a 1-0 advantage. Moad walk and DePew singled, and Wood's safety chased Moad home for a 2-0 lead.

Waterloo responded with three two-out tallies in its half of the first. Clay Moehrs and Neil Fiala were retired, but Mike Wirth singled, moving Wirth to third. Jim Wahlig delivered a run-scoring hit for the Buds' first tally.

John Wahlig crossed the plate on a Hendrickson error, and catcher Rik Work culminated the uprising with another single, scoring Jim Wahlig. Wahlig singled, moving Wirth to third. Jim Wahlig delivered a run-scoring hit for the Buds'

first tally.

Even though Moehrs didn't think Ries used the best judgment, he still believes Mon-Clair League umpires do a good job. That doesn't mean he likes what happened Saturday.

"I'll tell you what, though, as bad as the umpiring might be, it might be, you still need an umpire to have a baseball game," he said. "Anybody can make a mistake. You just hate to see things like that happen."

The Buds forfeited game one when Moehrs refused to make the fan leave the premises.

Moehrs, who has managed nearly 1,600 games and almost 300 victories, said it's the first time in his career he's ever forfeited a game.

"Never, in 1,600 games," he said. "Not a league game or a league game. And this upset me a little."

Moehrs and DePew said it's fortunate that both of his young pitchers on Saturday.

"I've been in the league since 1980," Moehrs said. "And I've always been very proud of this league. But society has changed. You can no longer be everybody's son. Sunday league. Six of our teams in the league have lights (at their park). We have to start playing night ball in the league. If we could do that, and give players some weeks off, we may be able to attract to the game."

"Also," our league is not capable of playing four games in two days. We've had games with only nine-inning pitchers to play four games in two days. You end up with sloppy ballgames."

"I always try to find guys to play for us who like the game as much as I do," he continued. "The guy has to be dedicated. We're losing teams, and something has to be done. Some people might look at us now as being the weak team, and think that's OK. But we have to find ways to get more people attracted to the game."

"The guy has to be dedicated.

We're losing teams, and something has to be done. Some people might look at us now as being the weak team, and think that's OK. But we have to find ways to get more people attracted to the game."

NOTES: The post-game talk between the two coaches, which is featured in the game fiasco, will be featured in a Sunday league game.

BPW group awards three scholarships

Granite City Business and Professional Women has a strong membership of energetic women who work hard to foster women's issues.

BPW takes great pride in the ability to award three scholarships to Granite City area women.

One of these scholarships has historically been designed for a graduate of Granite City High School. These funds were donated to the scholarships foundation of the high school and presentation was made in the organization's name by Kathy Clark on award day at the high school.

Rebecca Coker and Debra Mathenia of Granite City were presented with the Business and Professional Women's three scholarships.

Coker has worked in health information services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center since 1982. She is a physician peer review coordinator. The scholarship will help her receive an associate degree in medical records technology.

Mathenia has worked for St. Elizabeth Medical Center since

1977, in a variety of positions. This scholarship will help her receive an associate degree in applied science in data processing.

Each year BPW members conduct several fund raisers to help young people pursue their education and, it is hoped, return to the community to help in its growth.

GRANITE CITY TAXPAYERS

Let's join together to stop the waste of our tax dollars. We have a duplication of government in our community with the city and township form of governments.

Services such as all the senior citizen services, aid to the poor, and a youth program can be provided through the city government with a savings to taxpayers of 3/4 of a million dollars a year.

It's time to lower our taxes and stop the waste in our city. Join me in this effort.

Help with a petition circulation to place this issue on the ballot.

Horoscope

Wednesday, July 17
The lunar influence shifts to Leo today, encouraging you to get involved in all of our efforts. Appearances do matter now—but not more than content, which is the subject of exciting debuts and breakthroughs. Controversy: Stormy is also the word for intimate emotional dealings. Mercury transits into Leo this afternoon, so dramatic communication is well-received and effective at release.

ground in a competitive arena. You are the subject of a loved one's envy. Resist the urge to seem harmless.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You are coaxed into shouldering the responsibility when the boss is away. A pleasant surprise arrives around lunch time. Go into financial discussions with a good idea about what you want.

gemini (May 21-June 21)
A challenge to your intellect gives you a springboard for trying out new material. Leaf through travel brochures and entertainment magazines for ideas. Remembering a friend's schedule is a thoughtful and impressive move.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
An enthusiastic reception now means new romantic prospects but you are not interested. Your older friend's sudden change of heart alters your plans. Growing more politically aware helps strengthen you in a weak area.

have luck in love now, which makes it easier for you to ignore the possibility of rejection. Getting the scoop on a competitor's latest equipment and staff improves your financial strategy. Be wise.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (July 17)
The month sets you on an adventurous year. Travel in August puts you in a social circle you've admired for quite some time. A new love interest in the summer challenges your ideas of spirituality and religion.

leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Money comes through a sales enterprise in October. The best months for you are October and Scorpio. Your windfall months are November and February.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A relationship project takes a risk by revealing his or her sincere interest in you. A cheerful exchange near your place of business earns you a new client. A training period is ended. Employment changes on the horizon.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Brisk exercise outdoors or at the gym starts a new chapter in your life. Stake a claim on benefits and material items to which you are entitled. Tomorrow is better for you to handle important documents or making commitments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
A project you developed works like a charm. A brave venture into new emotional territory with a close friend helps you understand a recent occurrence. Attention in the home is revolving around a young rebel; find common ground.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Superior offers to you as a nice bonus. Trampled-over creative ideas gain new life when you discover an underrated niche. Concentrate on gaining favor with an extended family or critical media.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You find the correct way to reach a career goal by following a friend's lead. Venues that have already given a mediocre response to your contribution are now requiring your enthusiastic participation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Considerable progress is made after a conversation this morning. Definite job progress is hard to see, but numbers at the end of the month will convince you. Rainy days bring out the odd sound logical but are filled with holes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Results tallied from a recent opinion poll reinforce your popularity in a moment of doubt. Travel is postponed. Debts begin to downward spiral. Engage in new conversation tactics with one who takes longer to warm up socially.

Health & Fitness

Medicine Chest

Inflammation from mild exercise and sports injury can be treated with the RICE method: rice, ice — 10 minutes on and 10 minutes off; compression — wrap with an elastic bandage; and elevation — raise injured area to promote circulation and lessen swelling.

Fresh Picks

Boosting the use of herbs cuts back on salt and thus reduces sodium. To start blending flavors, try favorites, using a 3-to-1 formula of fresh-or-dried. Try dill and chives with potato salad or eggs; sage, chives and basil with squash; mint and dill with carrots; parsley, thyme and bay (classic bouquet garni) in soups, stews or tomato mixtures. When cooking tomatoes for canning or adding to recipes, try 1 tablespoon chopped fresh (1 teaspoon dried) basil and 1 tablespoon fresh (1 teaspoon dried) oregano with 1 pint (2 cups) tomatoes.

Big Fat Tip

When grilled meat is left, use it with smart eating in mind. It is easier to cut away fat when it is cold, so cut it in thin slices or small cubes, like deli roast beef, before rewarining. Fill pita bread pockets with slivers of lettuce, tomato and cucumber or radish. Mix small amounts of sugar with other ingredients so there is a contrast between sweet and crunchy cool. Sprouts are optional, but give the sandwich a healthy glow. Use non-fat creamy salad dressing — if desired, add a touch of curry powder or freshly ground pepper or blend until creamy with a little cucumber for traditional flavor — and enjoy a filling sandwich. It is a perfect match for lunch with low-fat milk and fresh fruit.

Future Shop

Summer makes people wish they had more options of cool drinks that are nutritious. A new line of flavored 2 percent milk is being marketed in Ohio and metro Pittsburgh. Moo Koolers compete with non-milk products. The line of 12-ounce screw-top plastic bottles is meant to appeal to kids about ages four to 12, but it is bound to be noticed by moms, dads and other adults, too. Flavors are VanillaZilla, ChoKool (chocolate mint), OrangeSside (orange vanilla) and ChocoBoom (chocolate fudge). The product was named a 'new product innovator' by Refrigerated and Frozen Foods magazine.

A meal in time

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

Need time to cook? Trying to stretch the budget? Want to eat more healthfully? Rhonda Barfield has a plan for you. Her track record is good. She wrote and self-published "Eat Well for $50 a Week," updated it into "Eat Healthy for $50 a Week" this spring, and offers other money- and time-saving strategies for clothing and household maintenance.

Her "15-Minute Cooking" offers step-by-step plans for creating home-cooked meals in two 15-minute sessions a day.

"This is an old concept, the idea of cooking a part of the meal at one time and cooking the rest another time. My system is much cheaper than some of the 30-day systems, which fit 30 days' worth of entrees into your refrigerator freezer, and the mega systems where you put six months' worth of meals into a separate freezer."

Her game plan is detailed. It tells how high to set the heat, exactly how many minutes to set an all-important timer and gives alternative ways to save fat, sugar, money and time. She offers a weekly shopping list.

"This allows greater emphasis on freshness," Barfield says. "You don't need as much space to do it either."

Above: Rhonda Barfield keeps an eye on pizza as she and her oldest son Eric, 9, check for doneness. The pizza was made in two 15-minute cooking sessions. On a daily basis, she uses that amount of time in the morning for setting up her meal, with an evening session for finishing it just before serving.

The system uses handy appliances: a stove with an oven, slow-cooking pot, microwave oven and refrigerator with freezer.

"I developed it out of necessity. I got real serious when I had a 4-1/2-year-old, an active 2-year-old and a baby. I figured I could get a lot more done if I divided up my cooking into small time segments," she says.

One fan follows the system without a microwave oven. Another person in Florida checked its cost.

"She found it cost $70 for one week's worth of meals, not particularly shopping for big values or using cost-cutting measures like coupons. That tells me that here (in a moderately-priced grocery market) I could average $50 to $60 a week following the recipes. You are saving time along with the money, so that's a winning combination," Barfield says.

While her plan calls for feeding a family of four, she finds some recipes must be increased in quantity to accommodate her husband, Michael, and their four growing children, ages 9 to 4. Because they eat at home a lot, with home-schooled children, they like leftovers, too.

"I've used recipes that can accommodate all household levels. One of the people who proofread the book

Grilling — a low-fat cooking method that offers great taste — is a American classic. It brings out the best fresh flavors and enhances the savory taste of almost any food cooked this way.

When it comes to picking a pork cut for the grill, pork chops top Americans' taste preferences. In the largest study conducted in the past 10 years, 57 percent cited chops as their favorite cut. Pork chops take on many personalities.

Four basic tactics — glazes, salsas, rubs and marinades — bring out the meat's natural flavor without adding fat.

Start with a "naked" chop and create unlimited taste possibilities by using these foundations to punch up a grilled meal:

Show-Stopping Topping: Put summer's bounty on top of a chop with salsa, chutney or relish made with fresh ingredients. Try a homemade topping like Cherry-Onion Relish.

Amazing Glaze: Give chops last-minute personality with a glaze. Try one with the triple flavor whammy of honey, lime and ginger. To use the ultimate chop topper, barbecue sauce. Apply it on only during the last five minutes of cooking for maximum flavor, minimum burn.

Racy Rub: This is a mixture of spices and herbs rubbed directly on meat before grilling. As meat is grilled, the rub — sort of a dry marinade — combines with the chop's natural juices to create a powerful flavor punch. Rubs can be made ahead of time and stored in jars. They also can be applied overnight or just before grilling. Cajun Rub gives big-time impact.

Lightning Marinated Marinade: Marinades are made with three basic ingredients: an acidic component, oil and seasonings. Marinating should be done from 30 minutes to overnight in a refrigerator. A self-sealing plastic bag simplifies task.

For perfect chops, allow time for charcoal or other heat sources to heat sufficiently before grilling. Coals are ready when ash-covered and glowing.

Place chops directly over the heat source and cover with a grill hood, turning chops over for even heating. Cook them to their best — medium — doneness, a total of 6 to 8 minutes for a 3/4-inch-thick chop, 8 to 10 minutes for a 1-inch-thick chop and 12 to 16 minutes for a 1 1/4-inch-thick chop.

At medium doneness, a chop may have a slight blushing in the center at an internal temperature of 160°. When the center of a chop is touched with tongs, there should be a slight "give" if it is done.

Makes about 2 cups, 124 calories and no fat per 1/4 cup.

Note: Wear gloves when handling pepper.

FIVE-SPICE MARINADE

In self-sealing bag or covered container, combine 1/4 cup soy sauce, 1/4 cup dry sherry, 1/2 cup minced onion, 2 tablespoons grated ginger, 1/2 cup lime juice, 2 tablespoons five-spice seasoning, 2 tablespoons chili oil and 2 teaspoons sesame oil. Add 4 pork chops. Cover with marinade. Seal container. Refrigerate overnight.

HONEY-LIME GINGER GLAZE

HONEY-GARLIC MARINADE

Stir together 6 tablespoons honey, 3 tablespoons grated ginger root, 6 tablespoons lime juice and 3 tablespoons oil. Baste meat throughout cooking time, glazing well before removing from grill.

Makes about 2 1/2 cup, enough for 4 pork chops; 68 calories and 3 g fat per tablespoon.

CHERRY-ONION RELISH

Stir together 1/2 cup dried tart cherries, 1 cup cherry vinegar, 1/2 cup minced onion, 1/4 cup lemon juice and 3 tablespoons oil. Baste meat throughout cooking time, glazing well before removing from grill.

Makes about 1/2 cup, enough for 4 pork chops; 68 calories and 3 g fat per tablespoon.

CAJUN RUB

In jar with tight-fitting lid, shake together 2 tablespoons paprika, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons onion powder, 2 teaspoons garlic powder, 2 teaspoons cayenne pepper, 1/2 teaspoons white pepper, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, 1/4 teaspoon leaf oregano. Store in jar. Makes about 1/2 cup.

GREEN BEAN SALAD

2 slices bacon, diced
1 small onion, sliced, separated into rings
1/4 cup chopped pimento, if desired
1/4 cup vinegar
2/3 cup clear carbonated soda, such as 7-Up

2 cans (1 lb. each) green beans, drained

Cook bacon and onion until bacon is cooked thoroughly. Pour off drippings.

Stir in pimento, vinegar and soda. Simmer 10 minutes.

Add beans. Heat thoroughly. Serve hot or cold.

Makes about 8 servings.

Heart-y Bites

By BARB TENG

Mango comes with wisp of tropical paradise

Anyone who has spent time in the Caribbean knows how tasty mangoes are. There are 48 varieties, but in the U.S. only about six are available.

The fruit is not only tasty eaten peeled and sliced, but it adds unique flavor in combination with other ingredients. Add mango chunks to salad or a stir-fry for a tropical tease. Make mango chutney to top grilled or baked chicken. Possibilities are endless.

Buying a ripe mango and slicing it can be a little tricky. The skins of unripe mangoes are green. Their colors change to yellow, orange and red as they ripen. It depends on the variety, but a completely ripe mango usually is a deep orange color with a peach-like aroma. The next step is wrinkled skin, which shows it is overripe.

Mangoes can be kept at room temperature up to a week. When they become very soft, they should be refrigerated. Besides their flavor, other assets are their plentiful vitamin A and potassium.

and potassium. It should be peeled. A very ripe mango's peel pulls right off by holding the edge with a knife. The flesh of a mango clings to the pit, so it must be cut away. Slice it lengthwise down to the pit, then crosswise as close to the pit as possible, to release slices or chunks that can be used immediately.

Donate Your Used Baseball Equipment and WIN a Trip to See the Cards Play in Houston!

Alan Benes
Honorary
Spokesman

"I'm honored to be a part of 'Sports Replay.' Without the chance to participate in sports as a child, I could have never made it to the big leagues. Give local kids the same chances you and I had by giving your new or used equipment to 'Sports Replay.' Remember, it's for the kids."

The Cardinals are working to give needy kids a chance to participate in sports, and you can help.

Just bring your used baseball bats and gloves to the Cardinals game on Thursday, July 25th, and deposit them in the Sports Replay barrels conveniently located near the gates 2 & 7.

You could be the winner of a trip for two to see the Cards play the Astros in Houston on August 24th. Trip includes round trip airfare, hotel accommodations, and tickets to the game.

The winner will be announced during the Cardinals game on July 25th.

So help out needy kids and you could be flying to Houston to see the Cards!

Milk shakes — those cool, "sippable" concoctions of milk and ice cream and flavorings — have been around since 1889. While the old-fashioned soda fountains of the '40s and '50s are few and far between, there still are family-run ice cream parlors where shakes are king, and everyone basks in the royal taste of sharing a summer tradition.

Two of the best known meccas for milk shakes in the Midwest are in St. Louis.

At Crown Candy Kitchen, the atmosphere is pure '50s, and the shakes are just the way Beaver Cleaver and his pals would remember them: homemade ice cream, milk and a choice of syrups.

Across town at Ted Drewes Frozen Custard, the signature shakes, lovingly called "concretes," are so thick they can be turned upside down without spilling a drop.

St. Louis District Dairy Council created this Choco-Java Shake in honor of National Ice Cream Day on July 21. An event worth commemorating, the "holiday" is noted with a shake that is a luscious blend of extra-strong coffee, chocolate ice cream, and, of course, cool, whipped cream, chocolate curls and candy coffee beans top off this extravagant sign of celebration.

If a trip to a paradise island has more appeal, sip on Triple Tropical Shake. Pineapple juice, pecan and guava nectars blend with ice cream and coconut extract for a dreamy treat.

Choco-Java Shake enlivens favorite flavors with rich smoothness.

CHICKEN STIR-FRY

 1/4 cup coarsely chopped pecans
 1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced

4 students honored for project contributions

Four Granite City High School students were recently recognized by the Principal R. William Rotter for their participation in the Toshiba/National Science Teachers Association ExploraVision program. The program awards certificates and grants to the ExploraVision team. Team members were Brian Blankenship, Jason Clark, Eric Jaycox and Erin Tongay.

The ExploraVision program asks students to submit their own original ideas on some aspect of everyday life that will be affected by technology in the future. The GCHS team developed the concept of replacing the current video cameras and projection with a laser holographic system. This would allow a three-dimensional reproduction of images. The system would enhance entertainment, academic and workplace use of video.

Ron Gilreath, GCHS coach, said the students worked more than 50 after-school hours researching the technology and working with advisers to develop their system concept.

ExploraVision encourages the participation of advisers. The GCHS team extends its thanks to Dr. Greg Michaelson, GCHS science teacher; Linda Haddox, GCHS business department chairwoman; and Dr. Frank Spreng, McKendree College and Jackson Hewitt Tax Service for all their guidance and assistance.
